Preface

'Reference Asia' in a number of volumes concatenated at intervals is aimed to congregate and emicate Asian fame and notability of its living people to emmove commensal and international understanding. It is attempted to capture and preserve knowledge of its people who are part of history today and tomorrow, people who have scaled the heights against odds to achieve excellence, people who have made a mark in original line of thinking by any standard, people who have played cogent role in stimulating and sustaining high name of art, literature and learning—in short, the outstanding contemporanean achievers.

This originative volume of the goal set forth, proffer more than 2300 capsule profiles without any prolixious exhibition but embellished as brief, crisp and epurated personal sketches of people of influence and interest identified in various fields of activity in Asia. Essentially the prolegomena does not cover the 'best known'. Efforts were made to locate and spotlight the 'most enquired about' on local, regional, national and international level, and the progression spread over the long road of more than two years have culminated in this book.

In dressing the sketches, efforts were made to maintain a uniform length but some variation inevitably occurred. In no case should the length of the sketch be taken as an indication of relative importance or measure of talent. In a number of cases, it was also found impossible to be barrently biographic because of the quality of achievement or the type of endeavour of the biographee. Besides, readers will notice certain occasional difference in the way the same kind of information about different persons is presented. It was because we have usually tried to follow the way in which the biographees themselves presented the relative information to us.

This epigraph on time does not end there where it ends but it starts from there, the result of conviction that subsequent volumes shall have no such error or omission which is part of this book as a consuetudinary feature of any initial work of this length and complexity.

The editors trust that the result of their efforts will be found to warrant the confidence placed in them. However, no one is infallible. If we have erred we beg the indulgence of the readers and cognoscenti. Comments, suggestions and corrections, if any, however, will be welcomed by the compilers.

Not as a matter of course but as a matter of fact, I extend thanks and appreciation to all who played a part intrinsically in creating and producing this vade-mecum.

Re-face

Definitely this is not a definite work, but definitely a definite effort towards the definite goal set forth. To those who believe that the beginning is important, if not vital, this initial volume on Asia's personalities will be particularly satisfying.

The maps of the world drawn by medieval cartographers were so hopelessly incomplete and filled with factual errors that they elicit condescending smiles today when almost the entire surface of the earth has been charted. Yet the great explorers could never have discovered the new world without them. Nor could the better, more complete and accurate maps of today have drawn until men, working with the limited evidence available to them, set down on paper their bold conceptions of world they have never seen. It is in this spirit that the concept of this volume is presented here—not as a final word, but as a first approximation filled with promise backed by accelerative thrust of completeness.

The disorderly order of listing the biographies in the book is not according to any system of preference. It has been adopted in place of traditional alphabetical sequence for the sake of convenience in compliation and up-dating. To overcome the obvious defects, the alphabetical index of the listed biographies is given below to help to find what is looked for.
